Saturday morning there was a meeting of the board of directors of the Broadway theater corporation, at which it was decided to sell the property of the corporation to S. Z. Poli of New Haven, the owner of many theaters throughout New England. The proposition had been favorably considered at a meeting on Thursday and on Friday Mr. Poli and L. M. Sagal of New Haven, his representative, were here and looked over the property, the latter remaining over until Saturday morning, when the deal was completed. To ratify the sale a meeting of the shareholders will be called soon. The preliminary papers have passed. Less than $56,000 was the price agreed upon for the property. To protect Mr. Jackson, who has the lease of the property until June first, the new owner will not take possession until that time.

Mr. Poli will make a number of changes in the building including redecorating and refurnishing, but how extensive the changes will be cannot be told at the present time.

There is a general expression of sat-be told at the present time.

There is a general expression of sat-isfaction that Mr. Poli has purchased Istaction that Mr. Poli has purchased the property, as he is known as an alert and active theatrical manager with a string of fine houses where first class productions are given. It is believed that he will give the best to be had in standard productions, while at times, as he does in his other houses, he may run in a week of high class vaudeville, now and then.

Mr. Poli conducts 15 other theaters, as follows: Worcester. Springfield.

Mr. Poli conducts 15 other theaters, as follows: Worcester, Springfield, Hartford, Meriden, Bridgeport, Waterbury (3), New Haven (3), Scranton, and Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Broadway theater was built in 1890 at a cost of about $100,000, being erected by popular subscription. It was modeled after the Broadway theater in New York and has expensive interior and exterior decorations. The opening took place Dec. 6, 1890, with the presentation of Amerita with Pauline Hall at the head. The seating capacity is 1,250.

One of the prime movers for the theater was the late J. DeT. Blackstone, to whose ideas much of the beauty of the building is due. It is declared by visiting companies to be one of the best appointed houses in New England.

The first manager of the theater was H. C. Noxon, who retired June 16, 1891, and was succeeded by Charles E. Case of the Western Union office. In 1892 Edgar L. Dennis took up the management of the theater and later Dodge & Harrison had control. It was in agement of the theater and later Dodge & Harrison had control. It was in 1897 that Ira W. Jackson became manager and he has since been the lessee. A few years after the theater was started there was some financial trouble and a reorganization resulted in the Broadway Theater corporation. The officers of the latter at the last election were; President, W. A. Briscoe; secretary, John C. Averill; treasurer, C. P. Cogswell; board of directors, Arthur H. Brewer, C. H. Osgood, C. B. Lee, J. C. Averill, C. P. Cogswell and W. A. Briscoe. The late C. H. Preston was also a director. There are now twenty-one shareholders.

While Mr. Jackson made his home in New London and was here nearly every day the theater had a good line of attractions, but since moving to Bridgeport and because of ill health the theater business has been allowed to drop and for most of the season vaudeville has occupied the theater.

OBITUARY.

Napoleon Duchette. Napoleon Duchette.

At 3.45 o'clock Saturday morning the death of Napoleon Duchette occurred at his home, No. 50 Chestnut street, when he passed peacefully away after an illness of four months with heart disease. He was confined to his bed but two days, however.

The deceased was a native of Canada having been horn at St. Charles.

ada, having been born at St. Charles, the son of John S. and Mary Ann Dod-lar Duchette, July 27, 1832. His father died when he was 7 years of age, the deceased being one of five children. Two years after his father's death the deceased went to live with his works deceased went to live with his uncle at Gresnwich, N. Got a "Cold" In the Head?

Most people have a mistaken idea about colds. When they "pick one up" they simply give up hope and make up their minds that they have a week or two of misery ahead of them.

This is all wrong; you can break up and get rid of a cold in 24 hours or less. THE SOONER YOU COMMENCE TREATMENT the sooner your cold will be gone. If you treat the cold soon after you know you have "caught it" and before it breaks out in its acute stage you may preout in its acute stage you may pre-vent its appearance altogether.

SMITH'S LAXATIVE COLD TABLETS

are one of the best, ff not the VERY best remedies we have for breaking and curing colds in the head. We sell It under a positive guarantee for colds in acute stages.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON CLASS RECEPTION AT MILLER'S.

Dancing Academy Packed by Relatives and Friends of the Class Members-Fine Dancing by Pupils.

The annual reception of the Saturday afternoon class at Miller's was held on Saturday evening and the dancing academy was filled with relatives and friends of the members. There were fifty-two members of the class, of whom two-thirds were beginners. From their dancing, however, this could not have been determined, as they waitzed and two-stepped besides doing the fancy dances like veterains, so thorough had been their training.

erans, so thorough had been their training.

Opening with a march, the leaders were Alfred Henault and Rilla Bussey, while the second couple were Gale Noyes and Marion Bliss. The march closed with the social gavotte and there followed fourteen dances, including the French barn dance, Yankee Boy, Princess, Travata, Minuet, Saratoga, Lanciers, La Reve and waltzes. The last four numbers, Gondoller, Paul Jones, two step and waltz, were participated in by everyone and there was a floor full to enjoy the close of the dancing season for the class.

ORGAN RECITAL AT CHRIST CHURCH. Given by Frederick W. Loster, Assisted by Mrs. Grace Aldrich-Crowell, So-

Christ church held a very large attendance on Saturday afternoon when the second in a series of organ recitals was given by Frederick W. Lester, organist of Broadway Congregational church. There were five organ numbers, and in his characteristic manner Mr. Lester brought out the merits of the reconstructed organ in a manner Mr. Lester brought out the merits of the reconstructed organ in a manner which appealed to the large gathering. Particularly fine was MacDowell's A. D. 1620, while the three movements from Gulimant's Fifth Sonata were skilfully given. The programme was well chosen and greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Grace Aldrich-Crowell was heard with charming effect in Dudley Buck's My Redeemer, while as her second selection she gave Turn Thee Unto Me by Costa, in which her sweet soprano voice found full expression.
